American war ships of this cruiser class and appearance include the Lexington, Constellation, Saratoga, Ranger, Constitution and United States.

American war ships of this battleship class include the South Dakota, Indiana, Montana, North Carolina, Iowa and Massachusetts.

Some interesting figures obtained for publication today in regard to the "new navy" call attention to the fact that the new battle cruisers Saratoga and United States will each mount a main battery of eight 18-inch guns. This is the heaviest gun mounted in any navy. It is estimated the range of the new 18-inchers will be between twenty-six and twenty-seven miles. There will be six great battle cruisers built, and work on them has just begun. The others will be the Constitution, Constellation, Lexington and Ranger. All of the battle cruisers will be 850 feet long, 43,500 tons displacement, 180,000 horse power, and they are expected to make 231/4 knots, which would be pretty good speed for a destroyer, the fastest type of maval ship. The horse power of the big cruisers, 180,000, is 120,000 greater than in the new battleships. An interesting note in this connection is that it takes dynamos developing 456,972 horse power to light New York city of a night. It is pointed out that three of the new battle cruisers anchored in the Hudson and "hooked up" could furnish New York's lighting and have something like 80,000 horse power to spare.

CHURCH CONFERENCE WAS WELL ATTENDED

VERNON DISTRICT LEAD IN NUM-BER OF DUES AND PLEDGES IT HAD.

Two hundred and fifty delegates were present at the Northwest Texas Women's Missionary conference held in Amarillo June 5 to 9, according to Mrs. D. H. Henry who returned yesterday from there. Every officer of the conference, too, was present, which was considered an unusual feature of the meeting. The Vernon district, said Mrs. Henry, led the others in the number of dues and pledges it possessed.

Mrs. Luke Johnson, of Grissin, Ga., and Mrs. M. L. Hargrove, of Nashville, Tenn, were two of the distinguished visitors in attendance at the conference. Mrs. Johnson addressed the gathering on the subject of "A World Vision." She has just returned from a tour of the war stricken countries of Europe.

Mrs. Hargrove, who is associated secretary of the centenary movement of the Methodist church, spoke on Knowing Jesus." She also made an address on public service.

Eugenia Smith, connected with the Wesley House of Fort Worth for the last five years, spoke to the conference on the work done by her organization, and explained its plans for the future.

Miss Flora Forman, who will soon leave for Africa as a missionary, and Mrs. W. D. Berry and Misses Mary many beautiful gifts were given to the young lady. Miss Forman will sail July 1

Mrs. N. G. Rollins, of Stamford, was elected president of the organization, for the coming year, and Quanah was Anderson and Frances Hicks leave chosen as the next meeting place.

The only safe plan is not to accept anybody's check. If checks are taken on local banks, they should not be taker until the bank has been phoned to an the check o. k'd. If checks are offered on banks outside of Vernon, the make of the check should be required to wire his bank as follows: 'Charge my ac ount with blank dollars for check made to blank company.'

Where and What To Eat

That is the question almost everyone asks these warm days. Many complain that the hot weather causes loss of appetite. A great deal depends on the restaurant one visits and the food served.

Secretary of Agriculture Reaches Conclusion After Careful Advanced by Grain Interests Consideration of Arguments -Present System Most Generally Acceptable to Farmers.

A recent bulletin issued by the United States department of agriculture announces that after a careful consideration of all evidence and arguments presented to it for certain changes to take effect at the begins ning of this crop year, involving a distinct lowering of the present standards for hard red spring and durum wheats, the department has concluded that no change should be made in the present standards for wheat. Hearings were given this spring to representatives of grain trade organization and producers and millers from the grain belts at conferences in both Washington and Chicago in order that all interests concerned in the production, marketing and handling of wheat might be heard. This was done as a result of representations made to Secretary Meredith that there was dissatisfaction in the central northwest with the present federal wheat grades for hand red spring and Durum wheats. Delegates from Texas, Oklahoma and Illinois were also heard.

No. 1 Grade Not Eliminated.

According to a local grain dealer, the elimination of number one grade of wheat, as suggested by some localities, would work a hardship on the More barrels of flour and more loaves farmers in this particular belt, as much as 60 and 61 pounds to the bushel of wheat is raised in these parts. The abolition of this high grade would necessitate Texas farmers receiving for their product what is now paid for number two grain. At present, number one wheat brings three cents a bushel more than number two. The present scale for wheat, say the grain men, is satisfactory to these parts if it is observed uniformly all over the country.

The report of Secretary Meredith follows:

The marketing of American grown wheat is a highly complicated process, involving inter-related local, interstate and foreign transactions. There are many interests to be considered. Obviously, if the seller is to know what he offers for sale and the buyer is to know what he is buying, that the miller or exporter does not and if their transactions in wheat are to be conducted with the minimum of effort and expense from a grading standpoint, they must speak a commor language. This cannot exist unles there is a single set of grading standards for the use of all of them, which FREE EMPLOYMENT must apply to all markets and a sections of the country which produce or handle the same wheat.

Proposed Changes Discussed.

For more than ten years the department of agriculture has been gathe ing samples of wheat in every part of the country in which wheat is produced or marketed, during all stages of the harvesting and marketing and utilization of wheat, and in every season. All the grading standards established and used for many years by state and trade organizations have AND OTHERS NEEDING WORKbeen collected and carefully studied. Records have been kept of grades assigned by commercial inspection orby the department have been analyzed and the information derived from such investigations recorded in detail, tabulated and preserved, and compared NO CHARGE FOR OUR SERVICES with data obtained from outside sources. No other single organization has any such collection of data. The proposed changes are discussed in the light of this information.

Moisture Standard Is Fair.

Wheat containing 15 per cent of moisture is worth less and commands a lower price on the market than drier wheat. Raising the moisture content for grades Nos. 1 and 2 to a point beyond that safe for storage and transportation will result in buyers specifying the moisture content in addition to the grade in their purchases from terminal markets, which will greatly complicate their business transactions, or they will lower their price on all purchases of these grades against loss on the wheat that may go out of condition. If the average price is lowered by those who must store loss, buyers must offer less and it will be reflected back to the farm, and the farmer with dry wheat will receive a lower price while the farmer with wheat containing a slightly higher percentage of moisture will receive no

There is no occasion for increasing the amount of moisture allowed in No. 1 and 2 wheat to 15 per cent, for the reason that in the six years from 1911 to 1916, inclusive, covered by departmental investigations, there was no year in which the average moisture content of hard red spring wheat reached 15 per cent.

Change Encourages Adulteration.

The great bulk of wheat produced and marketed in the central northper cent of the wheat from this sec not be benefited by a revision of the wheat standards permitting more rye as the ultimate buyer of the wheat, whether the miller or the export shipper, will expect to receive wheat with he must make his price accordingly. for adulteration by elevator operators proximately a dollar per bushel less than wheat. The same argument that the return to the farmer will be les by lowering the test weight and mois ture requirements applies to an increase in the allowance for rye. This is all of course, based upon the fac that rye is not worth as much from a milling and baking standpoint as wheat.

Mixture of Spring and Durum Wheats. Durum wheat mixed with spring wheat is detrimental to the milling and bread making qualities of spring wheat. On the other hand Spring wheat. On the other hand spring mental to the qualities possessed by Durum wheat for the purposes of macaroni and allied products. Conse quently, spring wheat mixed with Durum will not bring the same price as spring wheat free from Durum nor will Durum wheat mixed with Spring command the same price as Durum wheat in the pure state. A revision of the present standards permitted freer mixture of spring and Durum wheats will increase the opportunities for mixing in terminal elevators and will penalize farmers producing a superior product.

It is common knowledge that dark, hard, vitreous wheat is superior in milling and bread-making qualities to wheat which is vellow in color or starchy in texture. Dark, hard vitreous wheat commands a premium over yellow or starchy wheat in all markets of the country. Spring wheat produced in the central northwest is characteristically dark, hard and vitreous. Only a very small percent age of a normal crop fails to meet the requirements of the subclass "North ern Spring" under the present standards. Of the 1918 crop approximately 4 per cent graded "Red Spring." Of the past something like 1 per cent graded "Red Spring." It would cheapen Northern Spring wheat to allow admittedly inferior wheat to be labeled "Northern Spring.

Products Not Benefited by Change.

No useful purpose would be served by substituting the term "good color" for the word "bright." The actual iuterpretation of either term would be the same. Such a change would be merely a change in words and not in meaning.

The request made by the central northwest delegation for a general lowering of the present standards for Hard Red Spring and Durum wheat was made apparently on the theory that, under the standards they proposed, the producer would receive more money for his wheat. #### Majority Opposed to Change.

At the second hearing at Washington and at the hearing at Chicago on April 2, 1920, overwhelming opposition was voiced against any change this year in the standards for wheat now in force. After the announcement of the public hearing held in Chicago many letters and telegrams from farmers' organizations, state officials, grain dealers and millers' organizations in different sections of the country were received, opposing change in the standards; in fact, many of these expressed the de sire for even higher standards, thereby making higher requirements for the better grades of wheat.

During the consideration of the proposed changes in the wheat standards I have been impressed with the great need for educational and demonstrational work, to inform producers, coun try buyers and others regarding the purposes of the standards and their re quirements, their proper application, and the value of grading standards to the producers and other interests in

The pleasant environment, the alert courtesy of our attendants, the immaculate napery, cutlery and china, the association with people of refined discrimination, the freedom from summer heat and kitchen odors are all factors that make an inducement for families to forego summer cooking at home.

The majority of the farmers undoubtedly have been losing in the battle of life or this situation would not exist. Labor has remained in the city or emigrated there where short hours and high pay are to be found, where there are amusements and diversions, and where life is not just hoeing down one row and up another. Non-essential employments are flourishing, thereby lowering the marginal productivity of each worker out of proportion to the wage he receives.

If the farmer is enabled to compete with the wage and hour scale of the city, the situation will be in a great measure relieved. With proper inducements labor can be diverted from non-essential employment in the cities to more productive work on the farms. This can be done by making farm life more attractive, but above all, by making farming more profitable through stabilizing the prices of farm products on higher levels

WHY WORRY ABOUT SUGAR? MAKE THIS HONEY CAKE

Honey cakes have the advantage over other cakes of keeping fresh much longer. The following one, which is excellent, is recommended by food specialists of the United States department of agriculture:

One-half cup butter; 1 cup honey; egg: 1-2 cup sour milk; 1 teaspoon soda; 1-2 teaspoon cinnamon; 1-2 teaspoon ginger; 4 cups flour.

Rub the butter and honey together: add the egg well beaten, then the sour milk and the flour sifted with the soda and spices. Bake in a shallow pan.

FARMS STILL MOST IMPORTANT

Oklahoma City Banker Compliments Vernon on Appearance and on Business Prospect.

"Don't forget the farmer and stock man," is the suggestion of T. P. Martin, Jr., president of the Stock Yards National Bank of Oklahoma City. Mr. Martin was in Vernon this week lookpose of making a loan.

He says Vernon is the best looking town he ever saw of its size, and has the best foundation for making a city "I suspect you have gas and oil around here; just keep on looking for them,' Mr. Martin suggests: "but don't make farm isn't worth staying with."

In Oklahoma, Mr. Martin says that the bankers and farmers are getting the farmer hold his cotton and corn and grain until it can be marketed. Only in this way does he believe a crisis can be avoided, on account of

It is Mr. Martin's opinion, how ever, that there is plenty of money to take care of the farmer, and is strong for loaning him money, not only to make his crop, but to build a bin for his wheat and corn, or a shed for his

"I have seen enough dmaged cotton between Oklahoma City and Vernon on this trip to pay the cost of sheds to protect the crop from rain and wind for a decade," Mr. Martin says. "We must look after the caring for and marketing of our crops, as well as helping produce them."
